Pat Elder got her first horse when she was twelve, a palomino and white paint named Coco. By sixteen, Pat was training professionally, starting 2-year-olds under saddle, retraining problem horses, and showing in halter and performance classes such as Western Pleasure, Showmanship, Trail, Reining, and Pleasure Driving. She bought her first Miniature Horse as a pet in 1992, and quickly fell in love with the breed. Now, she owns Rosa Roca Training Stable in Oklahoma City and professional trains Miniature Horses and Shetland Ponies for halter and performance. A published author with a love of researching, Pat believes strongly that understanding a horse's ancestry can promote better breeding or purchasing decisions, and can also add to a horse's marketability.

The video quality was good but I didn't learn anything new from this video. Basically was pretty disappointed that I spent my money on it. BUT, if you've never owned horses or miniatures, it has a lot to offer new miniature horse owners.

Love it has been really informative and helpful!

My granddaughter was very excited to receive the Training and Showing Your Miniature Halter Horse book. She has already read thru it and will be reviewing chapters when training her miniature horse.

An excellent read, a great source for the uninitiated or first time Miniature Horse owner who wishes to get into showing. Extremely understandable, written on a level geared for the beginner. I wholeheartedly endorse this book.

For someone wanting to not only get started showing miniature horses in halter, but also for general training tips, Pat Elder is the go to girl! Her instructions are easy to understand, and actually work! After reading this book, I feel much more confident about putting my horse in the ring! There are great pictures to illustrate the instructions, along with everything you need to know from catching your horse to preparing it for show to what the judges look for in a champion. Definitely a up to date go to book for anyone interested in this sport!
