Professional artist and graphic designer Jeff Mellem has worked in various industries over the last decade. Among others, he has designed for magazines, video games, and theater. He earned a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from California State University, Fullerton, and studied drawing at the American Animation Institute in Hollywood, California. Jeff uses traditional drawing techniques, the foundation of his work, to develop characters and stories.

I'm in a field with a lot of linear thinkers, so I found myself doodling to let off steam and keep in touch with my creative, out-of-the-box self. I got sick of drawing pathetic little flowers and wanted a little coaching on drawing people. This book offers step by step guidance, and I can keep it with me on my i-Phone. Fabulous!

The directions in this book are very basic, but to the point. Makes learning techniques easy for all to understand.

Great product, I would buy it again.

I used to sketch long ago and this book has helped me to start sketching people.

AA+
