Ordinary People Change The World Gift Set (Ordinary People Change World)

Synopsis

The New York Times bestselling series is now available in a box set! What makes a hero? Brad Meltzer and illustrator Christopher Eliopoulos answer that question, one great role model at a time. And now you can buy the first four—Abraham Lincoln, Amelia Earhart, Rosa Parks, and Albert Einstein— together in a wonderfully designed slipcase that includes an exclusive, autographed print, suitable for framing. “This is not just a series of books,” says bestselling author Brad Meltzer. “This is my dream for my daughter. My dream for my sons. These aren’t just the stories of famous people. They’re what we’re all capable of on our very best days. This is our history and, I hope, our greatest legacy.”

and their identical twin sons.

As the mother of two young girls I was looking to add something more historical but still kid friendly to our library- this is perfect! My girls (4 years and almost 3) are engaged and excited when listening; I have fun reading them, and we all learn something!

Fantastic books! Better than any history text you'll find in school, and kids love them, even at a young age. Being able to have conversations with my five year old about Abraham Lincoln, George Washington, Rosa Parks and many more, and having him engaged and learning about these icons at such an early age, is priceless.

Came in excellent condition. For birthday of my great niece

Love these series but I find they are a bit too mature for 4 year olds as I find talking about war and slavery distasteful for littles so young. I will wait to use them for when he is older. I will say that the one that is very good for a 4 year old would be Jane Goodal

My son loves this booklet. I bought him all the "I am" books. Just waiting for the Ghandi release.

My 6 year old loves these books! I love that a colorful, nonfiction series about changemakers is available for my little girl. Her teacher has read them aloud to her class as well.

I got these for my 7 year old grandson's birthday. He really likes them, chooses them often as the book he wants to read.

These are my favorite books for children. Ever. They're perfect from the message to the story telling to the illustration. I will collect them all and long as they keep releasing them. Oh, and my daughter loves them too! ;) her favorite is Abraham Lincoln because he freed the brown people in chains. So gentle and educational.
